ENVIRO CELEBRATES 30-YEAR ANNIVERSARY

The Lynn's family business that started in landscaping 1985 has grown to be one of the nation's largest black-owned construction and landscaping firms. ENVIRO's mission is to offer world-class construction management, design-build landscaping and consulting services for domestic and international markets, from the perspective that guides us to a standard of delivery based on exceeding our customer's expectations. We pride ourselves on professionalism, responsiveness and strong work ethic, while providing an environment that builds our success through the cultivation of our people. We "pay our civic rent" by actively giving back by creating job opportunities, nurturing small businesses through mentorship and serving with the organizations in our community that make a difference.

After 30 years at the helm, Dr. Lynn is preparing for retirement. Dr. Lynn intends to expand his public service roles where he now serves on various national and local boards. In passing the company down to the next generation, ENVIRO will become a female-led business. The designation will open the company up to woman-owned business programs, similar to how SBA 8(a) created opportunities that allowed ENVIRO to successfully transition from landscaper to construction manager. The company is diversifying by looking toward new markets in the private sector. While expanding its project portfolio will lead to gradual growth, ENVIRO is thinking global. The company is exploring international opportunities Africa. Management has made several trips to Ghana. The story of the successful partnerships between ENVIRO and large business partners demonstrate that mentoring works.

THE NEXT ENVIRO GENERATION

DR. KRYSTAL CONNER, CEO
 BRYAN LYNN, Facilities Manager
 ADRIENNE LYNN SIENKOWSKI, COO

Dr. Conner drives the strategic visions and goals for continued long-term growth. This includes spearheading the development of international joint ventures. Her travels have extended from Canada to Brazil and Ghana, as she works to expand the company's reach from domestic partnerships to global relationships.

Adrienne Sienkowski is responsible for driving the strategic and operational goals. She has provided executive level oversight all ENVIRO's projects since 2011. She has been responsible for working with project managers to deliver accurate project estimates, subcontracts, supply agreements, project closeouts and invoicing.

Bryan Lynn takes over as facilities manager responsible for operations and maintenance of the corporate headquarters in Columbia, SC. He has more than eight years of landscaping experience supervising large grounds maintenance projects for the company. He joined the company in 2006.

Grounded in family, the next generation is poised for significant growth.
