SPIRIT COMMUNICATIONS PARK OPENS WITH A HOME-RUN!

ENVIRO AgScience, Inc. was a part of the team that built Spirit Communications Park, home of the Columbia Fireflies, the MLB affiliate of the New York Mets that plays in the Class Single-A South Atlantic League.

CCEB Venue Partners (Contract Construction, Inc., Construction Dynamics, Inc., ENVIRO AgScience, Inc. and Barton Malow Company) delivered a world-class facility that opened with a win-win on April 14, 2016 at Bull Street Commons.

CCEB served as construction manager for the new Spirit Communications Park project. Spirit Communications Park is a state-of-the-art multi-use sports and entertainment venue that has seating for approximately 9,000 for baseball and 15,000 for concerts with amenities such as luxury suites, club seats, private areas for hosting private meetings, parties and gatherings as well as, social areas, grass berm seating and a play area for all attendees. The ballpark has something for everyone - for the avid baseball fan, great seats and vantage points; and for residents and guests, a public park—with the concourse and children's play area open down until dusk when an event is not in progress. Spirit Communications Park will be the cornerstone for Bull Street Commons, a mixed-use development that is transforming the former State Mental Hospital campus. The ballpark at Bull Street Commons will serve as a gateway to downtown Columbia, expected to bring half a million new visitors downtown every year and help generate thousands of new jobs.

"CCEB has done a fabulous job, the people have gone above and beyond what was expected... There was never anything they said no to and they always found a way to get the job done. It was very clear all the contractors on site had a high level of respect for them," stated Jason Freier, chairman and CEO of Hardball Capital, owner of the Columbia Fireflies.
